TOWNSHIP TO HOST BOARD OF REVIEW SEMINAR

Hanover Township residents looking to appeal their property taxes will not have to wait long. On Thursday, April 28, Hanover Township Assessor Thomas S. Smogolski will co-sponsor a Cook County Board of Review seminar with Cook County Commissioner Timothy O. Schneider. Starting at 6:00PM at the Township Senior Center (240 S. Route 59, Bartlett), the Board of Review will be answering questions and accepting property tax appeals. Residents are asked to bring their Real Estate Tax bill to the seminar.

“Residents can attend the event to have someone walk them through the appeals process to make sure their paperwork is filed correctly,” said Hanover Township Assessor Thomas S. Smogolski.

The Cook County Board of Review will be accepting appeals starting Monday, April 11 until Tuesday, May 10. There will be no extensions to this deadline.

“This is a great opportunity for Hanover Township residents who feel that their property is unfairly over assessed,” said Cook County Commissioner Timothy O. Schneider.

For questions or for more information, please contact the Township Assessor’s office at 630-837-0301 or at assessor@hanover-township.org.
