Re: Change Orders 1 and 2

Background

Change Orders 1 and 2 will need to be issued to the contractor for work at Izaak Walton. The change orders are associated with the poor condition of the existing subgrade. Undercuts and backfill will be required. Additionally, excavation revealed an abandoned culvert pipe and buried asphalt. The work will be done on a Time & Material basis. The cost of the work associated with Change Orders 1 and 2 is estimated to be approximately $42,159. The original contract awarded to Schroeder was $67,492.55.

Design Criteria and Assumptions

The Izaak Walton Center project was advertised for bid on June 27th, 2019. At that time, a geotechnical investigation had not been completed. The Township was arranging for the geotechnical investigation to be completed. We were directed to issue plans for advertisement without the geotechnical investigation, with direction that the geotechnical investigation and any changes related to it would be included as an addendum.

The bid opening was completed on July 29th, 2019 and the contract was awarded to Schroeder Asphalt Services, Inc. on August 7th, 2019. At this point the geotechnical investigation was still not completed. Since the contract was already awarded, any changes resulting from the geotechnical investigation would now result in a change order.

The geotechnical report was received on August 22nd, 2019. The report indicated that remediation would be required to achieve a stable subgrade. The recommendation was to perform a proof roll to identify low stability areas. This is what is being done by the contractor now.

This change order was going to be required no matter what due to the conditions of the subgrade. This project was delayed as we waited for a permit from the City of Elgin. The permit was finally received on October 21st. The contractor was able to mobilize on 11/05/2019. Unfortunately, due to the timeline, we are up against the winter season and the Change Orders need to be rushed. If the timeline with the permit had worked out better, the situation would not be so critical.
Conclusion
The geotechnical engineer recommended that low stability areas be identified with proof rolls. Undercuts and remediation should be completed. This is what we are having the contractor do at the time. The estimated costs were unknown until the contractor began excavation and proof rolling.

Re: Subsurface Exploration and Geotechnical Report for 899 Jay Street, Elgin, IL

Dear Mr. Hanson:

As requested, Material Service Testing, Inc. (MST) performed a subsurface geotechnical exploration for proposed full depth pavement at 899 Jay Street, Elgin, IL. The purpose of this investigation is to determine the suitability of existing subgrade to support new full depth pavement connecting Hastings Street to the existing parking area of the Izaak Walton Center.

Subsurface Exploration Procedures

Soil boring locations for this exploration were provided by the client. Utility clearance and drilling was performed by Riamonde Drilling Company. An all-terrain mounted rotary drill, utilizing hollow stem augers and a split spoon sampling system were utilized to obtain the information contained in this report. Survey data was taken from the provided location plan. Samples for borings were delivered to Material Service Testing, Inc., located in Elk Grove Village for classification and testing.

Laboratory Classification and Testing Procedures

During the laboratory classification and testing phase, a senior soils technician visually classified each soil sample in accordance with the Unified Soil Classification System (ASTM Standards D 2487 and D 2488). For each of the samples, when applicable, the natural moisture content was determined using ASTM D 2216 and an unconfined compressive strength of the cohesive soils was measured with a calibrated spring loaded pocket penetrometer. Particle size distribution testing (ASTM C136 and D1140) was performed on two samples. All test results are attached to this report as well as included on the soil boring logs.

Soil Conditions

Stratigraphy of the soils encountered in the borings appears to consist largely of brown sands to a brown clayey sand with varying degrees of clay and silt and reached a depth in elevation of 715.8 in boring 1 and elevation 717.9 in boring 2. Sands encountered in both borings were very loose to loose in nature. Sands encountered in boring 2 were underlain by brown to brown and gray silty clay with traces of sand and ranged from soft to firm.

Soils encountered exhibited strengths of varying degrees as measured by SPT (N value) and pocket penetrometer methods. N values ranged from 2 (sample 2, boring 2) to 8 (samples 3 and 4, boring 1) and cohesive samples obtained indicated bearing strengths approximately 1.5 TSF.

Ground water was not encountered during drilling operations. Sample 2 of boring 2 had a moisture content of 36% while all other samples ranged from 10% to 19% moisture. Sieve analysis indicated that sands samples were uniformly graded from ¾” to passing the #200 sieve.
Conclusions

Proposed roadway elevations and amounts of cut and fill needed to reach them will dictate the need and type of subgrade preparations required. Sands encountered in boring 1 may require mechanical compaction to a minimum of 95% of standard lab density (ASTM D698) in order for proper stability to be reached. Firm underlying clays in these areas should provide adequate support for roadway construction.

High moisture content material found in soil boring 2, sample 2 which is within the upper 3 feet of existing grade may require remediation (undercutting, disc and dry or lime/cement stabilization) in order to achieve a stable subgrade. We recommend, once all vegetation and organic material has been removed, a proof roll be performed per the most current IDOT SSRBC in order to identify low stability areas that may cause concern.

We appreciate the opportunity to work with you on this project. Should you have any questions with regard to the information presented in this report or if we can be of further assistance, please do not hesitate to contact us.

Respectfully,

Michael Hayes
Director of Operations
